

Special Issue

Impact of Stress in Ruminants

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to present the most recent developments in our understanding of the relationship between physiological systems, during the regulation of stress responses, and metabolism, growth, development, immune reaction and the quality of products, in order to identify and limit events contributing to ruminant stress. Original research articles and reviews, providing interdisciplinary and global perspectives, are welcome. The topics will include, but are not limited to:

- Environmental factors;
- Nutrition and supplementation;
- Reproduction;
- Product quality;
- Genetic background;
- Behavior;
- Avoiding stress strategy;
- Ameliorating stress effects;
- Physiological and pathological aspects of stress response.

We look forward to receiving your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Ruminants (ISSN 2673-933X) is an international open access journal. It publishes original research articles, reviews, and communications that offer substantial new insight into any field of study that involves ruminants, including cattle, all domesticated and wild bovines, goats, sheep, giraffes, deer, gazelles, and antelopes.
