

Special Issue

Photoacoustic and Photothermal Sensing and Imaging

Message from the Guest Editor

The intensive development of photoacoustic and photothermal techniques over the past few decades has led to them no longer being considered solely as research topics but also practical and unique measuring tools. This Special Issue plans to be a venue where researchers can share their experiences and ideas regarding all aspects of photoacoustic, photothermal, and related research, including theory, instrumentation, and a wide range of sensing applications. This Special Issue aims to collect high-quality original articles or comprehensive review papers on photoacoustic and photothermal theory and sensing applications. Particular interest is devoted to the “4th Conference on Photoacoustic and Photothermal Theory and Applications”. Authors of conference papers that fall within the scope of Sensors are invited to submit extended papers to this Special Issue.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Sensors is a leading journal devoted to fast publication of the latest achievements of technological developments and scientific research in the huge area of physical, chemical and biochemical sensors, including remote sensing and sensor networks. Both experimental and theoretical papers are published, including all aspects of sensor design, technology, proof of concept and application. Sensors organizes Special Issues devoted to specific sensing areas and applications each year.
