

Special Issue

Editorial Board Members' Collection Series: Electronic Sensors, Devices and Systems

Message from the Guest Editors

Since its launch in 2001, Sensors has provided an advanced forum for the science and technology of sensors and their applications. During this time, the journal broadened its scope to devices and systems representing the object of measurements. The editor's choice of providing open access to the articles in the journal, the continuous effort of the editorial team, and the rigor of reviewers providing their valuable work have helped the journal to achieve outstanding relevance in the scientific community. To celebrate the latest achievements of the journal, the Section "Electronic Sensors" is now compiling a collection of feature papers invited by the Section Editorial Board Members (EBMs) and submitted by outstanding scholars in this research field. This Special Issue aims to provide the state of the art in this field to the broadest possible audience and promote the diffusion of recent results and networking among researchers in the areas of sensors, sensing technologies, and data processing. ## About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Sensors is a leading journal devoted to fast publication of the latest achievements of technological developments and scientific research in the huge area of physical, chemical and biochemical sensors, including remote sensing and sensor networks. Both experimental and theoretical papers are published, including all aspects of sensor design, technology, proof of concept and application. Sensors organizes Special Issues devoted to specific sensing areas and applications each year.
