

Special Issue

Sensors for Health Monitoring and Disease Diagnosis

Message from the Guest Editor

I cordially invite you to contribute your work, expertise and insights, in the form of research articles and reviews, for this Special Issue. The goal of this Special Issue is to disseminate new, original and collective knowledge, gathered from the esteem professionals like yourself, for the advancement of wearable sensors community. This Special Issue will cover all aspects of cutting-edge wearable sensor science and engineering, that selectively sense physiological, chemical, biological species and processes. Articles may address both conceptual and scientific advancements in sensor engineering, chemistry, design and measurements. Contents may focus on clinical studies, sensor development and commercialization, which could facilitate the understanding of product development beyond research.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Sensors is a leading journal devoted to fast publication of the latest achievements of technological developments and scientific research in the huge area of physical, chemical and biochemical sensors, including remote sensing and sensor networks. Both experimental and theoretical papers are published, including all aspects of sensor design, technology, proof of concept and application. Sensors organizes Special Issues devoted to specific sensing areas and applications each year.

Author Benefits

Open Access:

free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Ei Compendex, Inspec, Astrophysics Data System, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Instruments and Instrumentation) / CiteScore - Q1 (Instrumentation)
