

Special Issue

Advanced Inertial Sensors, Navigation, and Fusion

Message from the Guest Editors

Inertial sensors play an important role in diverse applications, such as autonomous vehicles, wearable devices, animal tracking, robotics, antenna stabilization, and more. This Special Issue aims to collect high-quality research papers and review articles focusing on recent advances in inertial sensors, navigation and fusion addressing theory, technology, and applications.

- inertial sensing
- artificial intelligence in navigation and fusion
- innovative autonomous navigation approaches
- nonlinear estimation for sensor fusion
- cooperative navigation
- emerging technologies
- localization
- global navigation satellite systems

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Sensors is a leading journal devoted to fast publication of the latest achievements of technological developments and scientific research in the huge area of physical, chemical and biochemical sensors, including remote sensing and sensor networks. Both experimental and theoretical papers are published, including all aspects of sensor design, technology, proof of concept and application. Sensors organizes Special Issues devoted to specific sensing areas and applications each year.

Editor-in-Chief

Department of Electrical and Information Engineering, Politecnico di Bari, Via Orabona 4, 70126 Bari, Italy

Author Benefits

Open Access:

free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Ei Compendex, Inspec, Astrophysics Data System, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Instruments and Instrumentation) / CiteScore - Q1 (Instrumentation)
