

Special Issue

New Challenges of Sensors Used for Food and Pharmaceutical Analysis, Environmental Control and Medicine

Message from the Guest Editors

For this Special Issue, we are inviting original manuscripts within the proposed topics of the International Conference NT-SMT-LS 2020 (<http://www.healthfoodenviron.unitbv.ro/2020/>), held in Bucharest, Romania. A special discount of 10% on the article processing charge will apply for those papers based on presentations during the conference if the article is accepted by at least two independent reviewers of the journal. Other related topics will also be considered.

- Analytical and bioanalytical methods for screening and diagnosis;
- Telemedicine and e-Health;
- Environmental pollution and health sensing;
- Innovative smart healthcare and biomedical systems;
- Progress in 3D bioprinting technology for tissue/organ regenerative engineering;
- Nanotechnology for nutritional sciences, environmental control, pharmacy, and medicine;
- Occupant/worker safety and health in construction;
- New (bio)materials used in medical and electronic fields.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Sensors is a leading journal devoted to fast publication of the latest achievements of technological developments and scientific research in the huge area of physical, chemical and biochemical sensors, including remote sensing and sensor networks. Both experimental and theoretical papers are published, including all aspects of sensor design, technology, proof of concept and application. Sensors organizes Special Issues devoted to specific sensing areas and applications each year.

Editor-in-Chief
