Special Issue

Sensors and Data-Driven Intelligent Transportation Systems

Message from the Guest Editors

Sensors are essential components of Intelligent Transportation Systems (ITS), such as connected vehicles, automated vehicles, traveler information systems, and advanced traffic control systems. They include loop detectors, mobile devices, traffic cameras, radar and lidar sensors, drones, etc. These sensors generate an enormous amount of data that are important for guiding decision making in transportation and for efficient operation of the transportation system. This Special Joint Issue focuses on innovative ITS solutions enabled by both traditional and nontraditional sensors. Submissions related to all aspects of sensorenabled innovative ITS applications are encouraged. Specific topics of interest include, but are not limited to: Optimal placement of sensors; Development and evaluation of new sensor applications for ITS problems etc. For further information regarding the topics, please visit: mdpi.com/journal/sensors/special_issues/ddits

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Sensors is a leading journal devoted to fast publication of the latest achievements of technological developments and scientific research in the huge area of physical, chemical and biochemical sensors, including remote sensing and sensor networks. Both experimental and theoretical papers are published, including all aspects of sensor design, technology, proof of concept and application. Sensors organizes Special Issues devoted to specific sensing areas and applications each year.
