Specialty Optical Fiber Sensors

Message from the Guest Editor

The aim of this Special Issue is to collect and highlight the latest advances in fiber sensors based on specialty optical fibers and their applications. Original research papers or review papers that focus on the design and experimental performances on the fiber sensors, as well as on their applications to interrogation and monitoring systems are welcome.

- Solid-core/hollow-core photonic crystal fibers, exposed-core fibers, suspended-core fibers
- Multimaterial fibers, functionalized fibers, lab-in-fiber
- Optofluidic/gas sensing platforms
- Post-processing of specialty optical fibers
- Bragg grating, tilted grating, long period grating
- Surface plasmon resonance, surface enhanced Raman spectroscopy
- Distributed, multiplexed sensing
