Membrane-Based Technology for Environmental Remediation

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue on “Membrane-Based Technology for Environmental Remediation” will compile articles on recent advancements in and applications of membrane-based systems in water treatment. I am calling for submissions of articles on all aspects of membrane-related research, including manuscripts on the synthesis, fabrication and characterization of polymeric membranes; membrane-based water treatment; modeling and simulations; process integration design; and innovative membrane processes, such as reactive membrane systems and membrane distillation.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Separations offers the scientific community a high-quality, open-access journal option with rapid time-to-publication without any sacrifice of a rigorous peer-review process. We invite contributions ranging from fundamental characterization and instrumentation development through application of techniques to shed light on a broad spectrum of separation science needs. Since inception, Separations, has become unique in its combination of rapid publication and thorough scientific content. We invite you to consider us for your next contribution.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 15.1 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.9 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2024).

Recognition of Reviewers:

reviewers who provide timely, thorough peer-review reports receive vouchers entitling them to a discount on the APC of their next publication in any MDPI journal, in appreciation of the work done.
