The Identity Achievement in Migrant Adolescents Living in Contexts of Ethnic Ghettoization: The Role of Family and Social Context

Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue “Identity Achievement in Migrant Adolescents Living in Contexts of Ethnic Ghettoization: The Role of Family and Social Context” focuses on the interrelation between psychological, social, and contextual factors, including gender and social equality. The impact of context on identity development during adolescence was overlooked for a long time, since identity was primarily conceptualized as an intrapersonal attribute. Recently, social psychology has highlighted the role of person–context interactions in the identity formation process. The adolescent’s identity achievement is a complex task, even more so if they are migrants living in a particular context of ethnic ghettoization. This Special Issue aims to collect articles that focus on the importance of individual and personal factors, as well as of proximal social relations in the context (specifically when the environment is characterized by social distance), in identity achievement. Both quantitative and qualitative approaches and methods are welcomed.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Societies (ISSN 2075-4698) is an interdisciplinary journal that brings together different scientific approaches to engage with societal questions to enhance our understanding of the social realm throughout history. The journal publishes original empirical research papers, literature reviews, and conceptual papers. Our aim is to publish papers that have a significant impact on addressing present and emerging societal questions. Therefore, we encourage researchers to publish their results in as much detail as possible. For empirical research papers and literature reviews, all experimental details must be provided, so that the results are reproducible. We also encourage the publication of timely theoretical pieces on topics of interest to existing and emerging societal questions. Papers are either published in the open journal or in Special Issues devoted to specific topics of interest to the field.
