Gender (In)Equality and Childcare: Policies and Practices

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue titled Gender Equality and Childcare: Policies and Practices aims to explore the relationship of national and local policies of child care, and the use and take-up of these policies in practice as well as the consequences of policies and practices for gender equality. Manuscripts of original research are invited to contribute to the current and future dialogue on these questions from the social sciences, education and/or humanities perspectives, opening space for topics related to (but not limited to) family sociology, family policy, family psychology, worklife studies, gender studies, and childhood studies. Contributions have to follow one of the three categories of papers (article, conceptual paper or review) of the journal and address the topic of the Special Issue.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Societies (ISSN 2075-4698) is an interdisciplinary journal that brings together different scientific approaches to engage with societal questions to enhance our understanding of the social realm throughout history. The journal publishes original empirical research papers, literature reviews, and conceptual papers. Our aim is to publish papers that have a significant impact on addressing present and emerging societal questions. Therefore, we encourage researchers to publish their results in as much detail as possible. For empirical research papers and literature reviews, all experimental details must be provided, so that the results are reproducible. We also encourage the publication of timely theoretical pieces on topics of interest to existing and emerging societal questions. Papers are either published in the open journal or in Special Issues devoted to specific topics of interest to the field.
