Socioeconomic Innovation in the Context of Globalization

Message from the Guest Editors

The end of the Cold War and the profound technological transformations that spread throughout the world in the 1990s opened a new historical phase: the age of globalization. The age of globalization is marked by a new understanding of the economy, society, and the environment, as well as emerging emergencies connected to many issues. These new challenges have triggered forms of socioeconomic innovation that involve the most diverse sectors and actors and foster new policies and new forms of politics at local and global, as well as urban and rural levels. Within the framework of the UN 2030 Agenda, this Special Issue invites contributions that:

- Identify models of socioeconomic innovation that marks the era of globalization;
- Analyze specific phenomena of socioeconomic innovation and their contribution to achieving the SDGs;
- Analyze socioeconomic innovation resulting from multilateral cooperation addressing shared challenges, by focusing on all tiers of government (national, regional, and/or local), as well the private and/or not-for-profit sectors;
- Examine cultural, social, political, and economic factors that can foster socioeconomic innovation.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Societies (ISSN 2075-4698) is an interdisciplinary journal that brings together different scientific approaches to engage with societal questions to enhance our understanding of the social realm throughout history. The journal publishes original empirical research papers, literature reviews, and conceptual papers. Our aim is to publish papers that have a significant impact on addressing present and emerging societal questions. Therefore, we encourage researchers to publish their results in as much detail as possible. For empirical research papers and literature reviews, all experimental details must be provided, so that the results are reproducible. We also encourage the publication of timely theoretical pieces on topics of interest to existing and emerging societal questions. Papers are either published in the open journal or in Special Issues devoted to specific topics of interest to the field.
