

Special Issue

Contemporary Work in Understanding and Reducing Domestic Violence

Message from the Guest Editor

I am excited to propose an upcoming Special Issue of Social Sciences on “Contemporary Work in Understanding and Reducing Domestic Violence”. Despite emerging data bolstering our understanding of domestic violence and great strides being made to reduce its instances in forensic and general populations, it remains a pervasive and pressing issue worldwide. Within this Special Issue, we call on academics, practitioners, service users, and policy makers to further our knowledge and showcase some of the contemporary developments in this area. We recognize that domestic violence manifests in many forms, so we welcome manuscripts discussing physical and image-based domestic violence, abuse that comes in the form of financial and social manipulation, and broader sexual coercion. It is vital that we capture under-reached voices within this compilation.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Social Sciences is an international open access peer-reviewed journal publishing the latest research across all disciplines of the social sciences including anthropology, criminology, economics, education, geography, history, law, linguistics, political science, psychology, social policy, social work, sociology and related areas. The journal is especially interested in interdisciplinary research, and aims to facilitate the interaction and communication between different social scientific disciplines. The journal welcomes conventional length articles as well as shorter Research Notes or short articles, as long as they meet the journal's standards of quality and originality.
