Social Work and Social Policy: Advances in Theory and Practice

Message from the Guest Editors

We invite contributions that examine how social work influences policy and how policy, in turn, can empower practice to enhance outcomes for individuals, institutions, and communities, especially those historically marginalized or made vulnerable by systemic inequities. We seek to enhance our collective knowledge to create the appropriate conditions that foster the elevation and transformation of contemporary service delivery. Submissions may address, but are not limited to, the following themes:

- The role of social work in advocating for equitable policy development and reform.
- Innovative theoretical frameworks addressing contemporary challenges (e.g., globalization, immigration, technological advances, climate, and environmental justice, diversity and inclusion backlash).
- Policy practice approaches promoting social justice, equity, and systemic transformation.
- Strategies for building institutional and community partnerships to support vulnerable populations.
- Interdisciplinary collaborations to enhance outcomes for individuals, families, and communities.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Social Sciences is an international open access peer-reviewed journal publishing the latest research across all disciplines of the social sciences including anthropology, criminology, economics, education, geography, history, law, linguistics, political science, psychology, social policy, social work, sociology and related areas. The journal is especially interested in interdisciplinary research, and aims to facilitate the interaction and communication between different social scientific disciplines. The journal welcomes conventional length articles as well as shorter Research Notes or short articles, as long as they meet the journal's standards of quality and originality.
