

Special Issue

The Public Child Welfare System: Discourses on Research, Practice and Policy

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue seeks original manuscripts dedicated to advancing knowledge on child welfare practices and policies. We encourage the submission of cutting-edge research studies that discuss child welfare, providing a clear and thorough analysis of various practices and policies and their implications. We also welcome manuscripts exploring innovative approaches to delivering child welfare services, from the entry of a child into the system to their exit via family reunification, adoption, legal guardianship, or aging out of the system. Papers should highlight the strengths of children, youth and families and investigate ways to enhance child wellbeing, reduce entry into the child welfare system and increase early exits from the system via family reunification, adoption, and legal guardianship.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Social Sciences is an international open access peer-reviewed journal publishing the latest research across all disciplines of the social sciences including anthropology, criminology, economics, education, geography, history, law, linguistics, political science, psychology, social policy, social work, sociology and related areas. The journal is especially interested in interdisciplinary research, and aims to facilitate the interaction and communication between different social scientific disciplines. The journal welcomes conventional length articles as well as shorter Research Notes or short articles, as long as they meet the journal's standards of quality and originality.
