

Special Issue

Small Area Estimation: Theories, Methods and Applications

Message from the Guest Editor

I would like this Special Issue to contain papers in small area estimation that have strong theories, methods, and applications, and a mix of these broad areas. Therefore, I welcome papers that develop innovative small area methods or that demonstrate sound applications of small area estimation to problems of practical interest. Some prominent researchers in small area estimation have already agreed to submit papers for possible publication. I look forward to receiving your submission.
