Message from the Guest Editors

In 2015, the United Nations announced 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), guiding the world to act together towards sustainability. As the emerging information and communication technology in recent years, Blockchain brings about new opportunities and impacts for the public and private sectors in many areas. This Special Issue focuses on how Blockchain can be a digital enabler to help government or enterprises achieve the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). We encourage original research articles, stories, or reviews of Blockchain-based information systems corresponding to the SDGs. Topics of interest include, but are not limited to, the following:

Empirical research of the adoption of Blockchain in information systems to achieve the SDGs;

Technological, organizational, or regulatory challenges posed by Blockchain-based information systems for the SDGs;

Case studies on the implementation of Blockchain-based information systems for the SDGs;

Convergence of Blockchain and other emerging technologies for the SDGs.
