Dear Colleagues,

Interest in the environment and its subordinate elements of common-pool resources and sustainability appears to be as high as ever. This Special Issue of Sustainability aims to provide a collection of high-quality studies covering many of the varied topics traditionally investigated in the broad area of common-pool resources and sustainability. These include, but are not limited to, property rights formation, conservation, depletion, the tragedy of the commons, free riding, externalities, special interest groups, international agreements and treaties, government regulation, and international organizations. We welcome original papers relating to these and other aspects of common-pool resources and sustainability.
