Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

The time for incremental change is over. Covid-19 has underscored not only the need for a radical rethinking of how our societies are organised, but the fact that this is possible. In many countries around the world, governments are enacting rapid and radical changes to support those who are, and who are becoming, vulnerable as a result of the spread of the corona virus - forms of help, that until now, they indicated was impossible (Baker, 2020). If we want to have any hope of staying within the safe operating space for humanity (Rockström et al., 2009), let alone for other species (Barnosky et al., 2011), rapid, radical and disruptive changes will be needed (Anderson & Bows, 2012; Steffen et al., 2018) across all areas of human endeavour.
