Message from the Guest Editors

In this Special Issue, we are especially interested in articles that explore governance challenges of technologies that are being adopted in smart cities and solutions to them. Key issues to be covered in the Special Issue include:

- The new risks, uncertainties and unintended consequences of the adoption of emerging and/or disruptive technologies (e.g., autonomous vehicles, smart health solutions, Internet of Things, artificial intelligence and robotics, 3D printing, sharing economy, blockchain, virtual reality and augmented reality) in Smart City developments to our social, economic, environmental, and political systems;
- The opportunities and challenges for the governance of technologies that can be adopted in smart cities and smart city developments as a whole;
- The diverse types of regulatory and governance responses to address the risks posed by novel technologies and the Smart City developments;
- And finally, how the hype around smart cities matches the reality of smart city developments now and in the coming decades.
