Message from the Guest Editors

Bullying and cyberbullying are a serious problem in developing a sustainable school environment. Only by building an inclusive education will a global and interconnected world be achieved with ethical and sustainable thinking. Articles on the generic phenomena of bullying or cyberbullying, as well as on the specific phenomena of bullying based on stigma, discrimination and/or social exclusion, are well received. Studies into the role of those involved, social dynamics, associated psychosocial variables, their precursor or protective factors, their effects and consequences, the evidence of the effectiveness of prevention strategies, among others, are of interest to this Special Issue.
