Message from the Guest Editors

This special issue will explore different aspects of urban and regional development with the support of various mathematical and statistical methods. We invite you to publish research carried out all over the world in order to highlight broad perspectives of the domain discussed in this issue.

Relevant topics include but are not limited to the following areas:

- Urban design and city management,
- Regional planning and development,
- Public and private transport,
- Quality of life and living conditions,
- Food systems,
- Pollution of the environment (e.g. air, water, soil),
- Quality of natural resources,
- Climate and its changes,
- Ecological indicators,

with an application of statistical approaches describing these elements.
