Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

This research topic particularly concerns manuscripts that reflect on the wellbeing of workers, given the changes that are taking place in the work context. This Special Issue, therefore, focuses on both those changes motivated by the health, economic, and social consequence of the worldwide pandemic, and other factors that are reshaping jobs (e.g., robotization) with logical implications on the wellbeing, health, and productivity of employees and organizations.

This Special Issue is open, but not limited, to the following themes:

Wellbeing; Covid-19; Technostress; Job design; Health; Productivity; Technological innovation; Digital and robotic transformation; New forms of employment; Work organization; Work-life balance; Work-related health outcomes; Future of work; Working conditions; Decent work; Corporate Social Responsibility; Occupational safety and health; Future work skills; Future personal resource; Sustainability
