Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

The main aim of this Special Issue is to explore various dimensions of territorial revitalization strategies to overcome marginalization, including those based on the revalorization of sustainable food systems and innovating bioeconomy models in marginal areas. Different research perspectives and scientific approaches will be considered in order to identify challenges of environmental and socio-economic benefits as well as scrutinize how sustainable food systems, bioeconomy models and innovative territorial revitalization strategies can provide opportunities to develop and enhance the spatial quality of environment in marginal territories.
