Message from the Guest Editors

The European Union “Horizon Europe” Framework Program (2021–2027) is aiming to identify and develop 5 ambitious “Missions” of a maximum European impact in research and innovation. These missions are geared towards social challenges, economy, environment, and industrial competitiveness, as fundamental challenges that must be addressed. In this context, it is necessary to analyze the role of organizational engineering as a key factor. Engineering in general, and Industrial Engineering in particular, plays an important role in generating innovation by improving the design, installation, operation, management, control, and improvement of industrial systems while providing services to companies and other organizations.

This Special Issue is focused on the role of engineers in promoting models of sustainable development. It also aims to present and review emerging industrial engineering methods, approaches, and technologies which address some of the most recent topics in the sector.
