Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

Sustainable Project Management is the planning, monitoring and controlling of project delivery and support processes, with consideration of the environmental, economical and social aspects of the life-cycle of the project.

In a world of global digital transition the achievement of the sustainable objectives in business activities for 2030 is one of the key elements of project evaluation. It determines the go/no go for subsidization and the go/no go for delivering certain products to the market. The digital transformation will put project managers ahead of new problems, but also new methods and new techniques to scope them.

Project Managers must also be aware of this new reality and start to adopt measures from the very beginning of the life cycle process project management and take decisions consciously, considering all relevant aspects in the best managing practices.
