Message from the Guest Editor

The year 2020 has been extremely trying. The coronavirus pandemic led to the loss of hundreds of thousands of lives and devastated the world economy. In the U.S., denial of medical science has taken its place next to the denial of climate science, all set within the horror of systemic racism. This situation is not sustainable and may not be survivable. Humanity is truly at a crossroads. This Special Issue of Sustainability on “Sustainability, Energy, and Environmental Policy: Humanity at a Crossroads” seeks papers that address big picture issues under this theme.
