Sustainable Development of Logistics and Supply Chain Management in the Digital Transformation Era

Message from the Guest Editors

We have been observing the intensive development of digitization processes and technologies supporting them for several years. Digital transformation is one of the key trends, the development of which has a significant impact on the current functioning of enterprises and supply chains and the future directions of changes and investments. This Special Issue on “Sustainable Development of Logistics and Supply Chain Management in the Digital Transformation Era” intends to collect the newest studies in the field.

Potential contributions may include but should not be limited to theoretical papers and/or quantitative studies and/or case studies. With this in mind, we invite theoretical and empirical research able to investigate a variety of lines of inquiry, including:

- Digitalization of supply chains;
- Sustainable development of logistics;
- Sustainable cooperation in the supply chain;
- Relationships between EDG/SDGs and business;
- Ecological controlling;
- EU environmental certification system EMAS;
- Supply chain digitalization framework;
- Digital transformation on supply chain process;
- Digital strategy development framework.
