Sustainable Forestry Management and Technologies

Message from the Guest Editors

The present and the future hold great promise, and this Special Issue aims to compile recent research results and studies in forestry management field. It will explore how these advances contribute to our understanding of forest sustainability and their practical applications.

Original research articles and reviews are welcome.

Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following:

- Artificial intelligence applications with sustainable forest management purposes;
- Forest monitoring tools based on active and passive sensor data;
- Forest tools and decisions support systems developments for sustainable forest management;
- Parametric and non-parametric modeling to describe and predict forest characteristics;
- Hardware improvements of passive and active sensors and their applications in forest;
- New forest measures technology and software.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
