

Special Issue

Entrepreneurship, Open Innovation and Digital Transformation for Sustainability

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to promote theoretical and empirical investigations on Entrepreneurship, Open Innovation and Digital Transformation for Sustainability, to understand the connections between entrepreneurship, sustainability, open innovation and the digital transformation of companies. This edition aims to contribute to a greater understanding of how the relationships between the abovementioned themes can respond to sustainability and climate change mitigation's challenges to companies. Also, we will provide approaches that allow us to systematize the existing literature while considering empirical tests of current theories and contributing to a future research agenda.

- Effects of technology transfer, climate change mitigation and patents on business performance.
- Sustainable Entrepreneurship Models Open innovation and business performance.
- Sustainability promoted by entrepreneurship.
- Sustainable Entrepreneurship and Sustainable Innovations.
