Enterprise Digital Development and Sustainable Business Systems

Message from the Guest Editor

In today's fast-moving and globally connected world, Enterprise Digital Development and Sustainable Business Systems are vital to driving both business and sustainability. The intersection between these two areas plays a crucial role in advancing sustainable development and shaping the future of business sustainability. We are pleased to present the Special Edition, Enterprise Digital Development and Sustainable Business Systems, where we aim to explore these critical topics in greater depth, uncovering their potential to create lasting value for businesses and society. With this vision, we invite you to contribute your research to this Special Edition, helping to advance the scientific discourse and push the boundaries of knowledge.

The purpose of this Special Edition is to collect creative research papers that present original research results or show review articles highlighting recent achievements in Enterprise Digital Development and Sustainable Business Systems.

We look forward to receiving your contributions.
