Sustainable Entrepreneurial Process and Journey: From Education and Innovation to Green Entrepreneurship

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue welcomes articles that seek answers to how Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) (United Nations, 2015) are achieved through the entrepreneurial process and what the journey to achieving these goals is, based on the ideas and opportunities the entrepreneur can meet. Expected articles include the construction of theories, reviews, policies, and empirical studies. Example topics include but are not limited to:

- The sustainable entrepreneurial process.
- The entrepreneurial and innovation process in a socially responsible company.
- Sub-processes and the structure of the entrepreneurial process on the way to sustainability.
- The development of a sustainable idea and opportunity in a new green/social startup (using a specific case example).
- The development of sustainable entrepreneurship competencies in education.
- Causation and effectuation within the sustainable entrepreneurial journey.
- The commercialization of green technologies in the entrepreneurial process.

We look forward to receiving your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
