

Special Issue

Employees, Corporate Social Responsibility and Sustainability

Message from the Guest Editor

In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome for submission. We invite submissions of papers that address further research that assesses the features of national-level governance and CSR or ESG engagement from the perspective of single-country or comparative studies. Thus, this Special Issue will focus on empirical and case studies that attempt to expose these issues. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following topics:

- CSR and its effects on corporate performance;
- CSR and its effects on different measures of corporate performance;
- CSR and its impacts on society;
- Consistency and authenticity in the implementation of CSR practices;
- Theories explaining instrumental and moral initiatives in CSR practices;
- Resources and capabilities that help firms in the adoption of sustainable practices;
- Innovations in the adoption of sustainable practices;
- Stakeholders' influence on CSR adoption;
- Perceptions of various stakeholders of CSR practices;
- CSR in family firms;
- CSR and corporate performance in different sectors;
- CSR during the COVID-19 pandemic.

I look forward to receiving your contributions.
