Special Issue

Advanced Oxidation-Based Techniques for Heterogeneous Treatment of Sediment and Sludge

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aspires to collect novel studies covering a broad range of topics, including contaminant (e.g. organic refractory pollutant and heavy metal) speciation, migration and transformation of pollutants in various sediments and sewage sludge, oxidation enhancement, interaction effect; system integration and compatibility with advanced physical-chemical and biological technologies, environmental and ecological risk evaluation, cost-performance analysis, and large-scale and/or practical application. This Special Issue aims to find starightforward, environmentally friendly, flexible, and cost-effective solutions and provide theoretical support for the implementation and application of AOPs to the heterogeneous treatment of sediment and sludge.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
