Sustainable Transport System and Mobility in Urban Traffic

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, Sustainable Transport System and Mobility in Urban Traffic, explores innovative approaches and practical solutions for creating sustainable urban mobility systems. With global urbanization accelerating, cities face mounting challenges, including traffic congestion, air pollution, and the environmental impact of traditional transportation models. This Special Issue delves into integrated strategies for urban planning, technological advancements, and policy frameworks that support a transition towards sustainable, accessible, and efficient transportation. The following topics are included:

- sustainable urban mobility
- sustainable transit policies
- smart mobility solutions
- multimodal transportation
- mobility-as-a-service (MaaS)
- connected and autonomous vehicles (CAVs)
- urban air mobility (UAM)
- urban traffic optimization
- emission reduction strategies
