

Special Issue

Sustainability Accounting and Accountability

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue calls for research covering a wide range of aspects related to sustainability accounting and its impact on accountability of for-profit, not-for-profit, and public sector organizations. The new Anthropocene era is calling for an increased awareness of the social, environmental, and economic impacts of organizational activities, and strategic and operational decision-making. Accounting and accountability practices are deeply involved in this process by systematically identifying, measuring, and representing the interlinks of the social, environmental, and economic costs and benefits and the overall sustainability. We welcome submissions of studies that investigate all forms of sustainable accounting (e.g., carbon accounting, wellbeing accounting, environmental accounting, biodiversity accounting) and accountability (e.g., integrated reporting, non-financial disclosures, popular reporting, sustainability reporting).
