Advance in Plant Breeding and Plant Biotechnology for Sustainable Agriculture

Message from the Guest Editor

The world's population has crossed the threshold of 7 billion, with the greater percentage of people living in less-developed or developing or countries. Clearly, food security in such nations will be an essential worry over the next few decades. There is a definitive need to utilize new innovations which could assist us with controlling this food instability. Globally, biotechnology is perceived as a growing, complex, and broad innovation. It has reformed all fields of life. By the usage of this technology, we have achieved remarkable success in increasing crop productivity, improving crop quality and overcoming food shortage. We encourage researchers and practitioners to submit original research articles, case studies and review articles in related fields.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
