Digital Transformation of Supply Chain Innovation

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to address and compile research that could possibly enhance a new wave of transformation innovations through the digitalization of supply chain management. Topics to be covered in this Special Issue include, but are not limited to, the following:

- ICT and its impact on operational performance in the post-COVID-19 era.
- COVID-19 resilience strategy and ICT investment are perceived to be correlated. ICT investment remains a proactive and reactive resilience strategy.
- SMEs and large organizations to collaborate for a common ICT platform to streamlining operations for higher efficiency.
- The role of Al in shaping sustainable supply chains and carbon footprint reduction.
- Digital transformation and associated security concerns pose challenges but offer opportunities for innovation.
- Industry 4.0 and SCM 4.0 drive sustainability significantly.
- ICT and digital investment have been argued to have mixed impacts on supply chain performance, thus bringing in more action research and best practice cases to drive its real-world impact and competitive advantage...
