

Special Issue

Brand Management and Innovation Management in the Age of Sustainable Development

Message from the Guest Editors

The theme of the Special Issue "Brand Management and Innovation Management in the Age of Sustainable Development" covers any relevant and promising issues related to the designated areas of management and business. The levels at which brand management and innovation management can be considered include not only technology, products, services and the organizational process, but also society, the natural environment, culture, public administration etc. Various issues and aspects of brand management and innovation management can also be considered: the relationship with the financial performance of companies, issues of personnel support for the innovation process, management risks, strategies, implementation culture, etc.
