

Special Issue

Creative Industries Entrepreneurship as a Means for Sustainable Innovative Transition

Message from the Guest Editors

What lies in the future for creative industries and how can innovation and entrepreneurship contribute to sustainable transition thereof? With this Special Issue, we want to expand this discussion through research. We invite papers that address matters of sustainability in a broad sense relative to innovation and entrepreneurship. Topics include (but are not limited to):

- Sustainable transition through business model innovation in creative industries;
- Open innovation processes in creative industries: strengths and weaknesses for sustainable transition;
- Specifics of knowledge-intensive entrepreneurship in creative industries;
- Collaborative practices for creativity and public policy;
- The role of universities/higher education for sustainable transition in creative industries.
