Special Issue

Advances in Ecosystem Services and Urban Sustainability

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue will present an up-to-date overview of advances in ecosystem services and urban sustainability by bringing together conceptual, epistemological, methodological, and mainly casebased studies or applied perspectives. The editors of this Topic encourage submissions focused on topics including, but not limited to, the following:

- New definition, characterization, or mapping of urban forms, urban ecosystem services, or urban management.
- Novel approaches to identify the main drivers of land cover/land use change for sustainable urban development in urban planning throughout history.
- Innovative concepts, methods, or technologies to analyze and model urban land cover/land use change, human-nature interaction, or social-ecological system dynamics.
- Disentangling the synergy and trade-offs among social progress, regional development, environmental management, and urban planning.
- New concepts, technologies, approaches, and developments of NBS.
- New technologies, methodologies, and tools to support BGI planning in sustainable urban development.
