

Special Issue

Emerging Transportation and Infrastructure Technologies and the Implications on Transportation Safety

Message from the Guest Editor

The focus of this Special Issue is on the implications of transportation safety as a result of emerging transportation technologies and infrastructure. The scope of this Special Issue is on transportation safety while considering an emerging technology, infrastructure, or both for all models of transport. The intended audience includes academics, researchers, and practitioners in the area of transportation safety. All research methods and safety applications are welcome. The purpose of this Special Issue is to allow researchers to present innovative work regarding transportation safety implications due to emerging transportation technologies and infrastructure. This Issue will supplement current transportation safety literature by providing a venue that focuses explicitly on this relationship.
