

Special Issue

Entrepreneurship and Sustainable Firms and Economies

Message from the Guest Editors

Entrepreneurship has become a truly broad field of study, spanning a host of different areas. This Special Issue contributes to research on entrepreneurship by providing a holistic view of entrepreneurship through the lens of energy. Obtaining insights into successful entrepreneurship in different regions with different cultures may prove highly useful for both researchers and practitioners. This Special Issue presents different approaches to entrepreneurship through the lens of energy, exploring cultural differences and influencing factors. This Special Issue is focused on but not limited to the following topics:

- Entrepreneurship and regional and rural economics and development;
- Energy policy and entrepreneurship;
- Energy conversion and management;
- Entrepreneurship and environmental effects;
- Natural resource management issues for planning and energy;
- Energy and environmental indicators of entrepreneurship;
- Entrepreneurship and sustainable energy systems;
- Energy and implications for economic development;
- Green energy and the economy.
