Looking Back, Looking Ahead: Environmental Dispute Resolution and Sustainability

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue explores how dispute resolution practices relate to efforts to promote sustainability and achieve sustainable development goals around the world. We are seeking papers that (1) identify a sustainability challenge and (2) analyze how dispute resolution efforts have helped or could help stakeholders address this challenge. We are seeking contributions that explore what is actually happening in contemporary environmental dispute resolution practice around the world and which present new dispute resolution possibilities.
