Special Issue

Industrial Symbiosis, Resilience and Sustainable Development in the Post-COVID-19 Era

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue welcomes original research articles and reviews taking the interdisciplinary challenge of broadening these two key disciplines. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following:

- In the Post-COVID-19 era, what industrial issues may threaten sustainability?
- How do researchers explain the challenges to industrial development from significant global events, such as the Asian financial crisis, subprime mortgage crisis and COVID-19?
- Is industrial symbiosis affected by COVID-19? And how is it affected?
- How do researchers improve industrial symbiosis from the perspective of resilience in the scope of sustainability?
- What lessons can be learned from the different performances of industrial and economic resilience?
- What is supposed to be the contemporary method for planning and industrial policies corresponding to the Post-COVID-19 era?
- How do researchers advance the resilience of industrial parks feasibly and sustainably?

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
