

Special Issue

The Role of Low-Carbon Literacy in the Leisure, Health, Sports and Tourism Industries

Message from the Guest Editors

This special issue invites original research articles and reviews on a range of topics, including but not limited to:

- The regulatory impact of low-carbon education policies on the leisure, sports, tourism and health industries, as well as the economy, environment and public well-being.
- The influence of low-carbon behaviors on the leisure, sports, tourism and health sectors and their effects on the economy, environment and well-being.
- The economic, environmental, health and social impact of low-carbon industries in the leisure, sports, tourism and health sectors.
- The role of low-carbon literacy in promoting sustainable economic, environmental and health outcomes.

We encourage scholars from diverse fields such as leisure, sports, health, education, economics and environmental studies to submit innovative research addressing these topics. Interdisciplinary approaches and studies utilizing mixed research methods are particularly welcome. We believe that this special issue will offer valuable insights into how low-carbon literacy and sustainable practices can contribute to a healthier, more sustainable future for both economic and ecological systems.
