

Special Issue

Plants, Biodiversity and Sustainable Ecosystem

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to focus on the sustainable development of agroecosystems, and invites papers that provide a comprehensive and updated analysis of traditional and innovative strategies/management systems aimed at evaluating and increasing the level of sustainability of natural and food production-related plant ecosystems. We welcome submissions of original research articles and reviews in the following areas (this list is not exhaustive):

- Protection of non-renewable resources and biodiversity;
- Soil management;
- Water management;
- Plant management;
- Agrochemical use;
- Management of areas of high ecosystem value;
- Protection and restoration of habitats for threatened species;
- Employment of eco-sustainable materials;
- Protection of monumental trees;
- Analysis of the post-primary production phases (packaging and distribution processes);
- Contribution to the economic development of the local community;
- Working conditions of employees;
- Traceability and nutritional quality.

We look forward to receiving your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
