

Special Issue

Organic and Perovskite Photovoltaics: New Materials, New Processes and Stability

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue will focus on emerging photovoltaics as, for instance, organic and perovskite technologies. Much effort will be focused on the development of innovative manufacturing processes, architectures, and materials in order to develop a new generation of photovoltaic cells, taking into account simplicity, efficiency, and durability. We welcome original research papers on recent technical developments of Organic and Perovskite devices, components, and systems, as well as relevant reviews and case studies to show the future direction of new emerging photovoltaics. Topics of interest include but are not limited to the following: organic materials, polymers, perovskites, synthesis, process, efficiency, durability, elucidation of mechanisms, devices architecture, and tandem devices.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international Open Access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. Sustainability publishes original research articles, review articles and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
