

Special Issue

Chemical Ecology—Green and Sustainable Chemical Manufacturing Practices

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim of this Special Issue is to provide a comprehensive platform for researchers, scientists, and practitioners to share their latest advancements, breakthroughs, and insights in the realm of green and sustainable chemical manufacturing practices within the framework of chemical ecology. This Special Issue aligns seamlessly with the scope of Sustainability as it covers a spectrum of disciplines ranging from chemistry and material to environmental science and sustainable technologies. For this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following:

- Eco-friendly chemical synthesis;
- Environmentally friendly electronic devices;
- Colloid and interfacial chemistry;
- Design and optimization of environmentally friendly material processes;
- Sustainable production of materials;
- Functional material synthesis and application.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international Open Access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. Sustainability publishes original research articles, review articles and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
