

Special Issue

Entrepreneur Collaboration, Social Entrepreneurship, and Open Innovation from a Sustainability Perspective

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue has the aim of collecting a broad selection of papers on the topics of entrepreneurial collaboration, social entrepreneurship, and/or open innovation from a sustainability perspective in both the developed and developing world. While all papers addressing the application of one or more of these issues from a sustainability perspective will be considered, the following types of papers are strongly encouraged: Case studies exploring the role of entrepreneurial collaboration, social entrepreneurship, and/or open innovation; Economic- or policy-oriented analyses examining the effectiveness of these approaches to achieve sustainable outcomes; Theoretical and applied papers exploring the current or prospective role of open innovation by public, private, and nonprofit actors in addressing climate change mitigation; Entrepreneurial and social entrepreneurial ecosystems oriented toward sustainable development. About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international Open Access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. Sustainability publishes original research articles, review articles and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
